Attorney General Bonaparte left Washington yesterday for a portion of his summer vacation. He will first go to Canaan, N. Y., for a short visit, and then to Lenox, Mass., for several weeks. He will return to Washington August 5, and remain a few weeks, when he will go on another vacation. H. C. Gauss, private secretary to the Attorney General, will join Mr. Bonaparte at Lenox. Before that time he will go to Rehoboth Beach for a week's salt-water bathing.

Col. and Mrs. John R. McLean will leave their country home, Friendship, today, and go to Bar Harbor for the summer.

Robert E. Coe, of the United States Geological Survey, has been transferred from Washington to Panama, and will leave next week for his new post.

One of the prettiest of the summer weddings took place last evening at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Kingsman, 711 East Capitol street, when their daughter, Miss Edna Belle Kingsman, and Leon Marvin Simons, of Providence, R. I., were married. Rev. F. M. Bristol officiated, the ceremony taking place at 6 o'clock. An artistic arrangement of palms, ferns, and bride roses carried out the color scheme of green and white. The bride party stood before a white satin chancel in a recess in the drawing room, which was backed with palms and clusters of bride roses beneath a cluster of white wedding bells.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father, and her only attendant was her cousin, Miss Edna Smith. Mr. Simons had as his best man, Mr. Barnes, of Boston.

The bride's gown was a becoming princess robe of white satin, over tulle and mouseline. The soft material was shirred to the figure and fell in graceful folds to a long train. Insets of baby Irish lace outlined the skirt about the bottom, and formed yoke and sleeve trimmings. The bodice was of white satin, with a long train. The bride's bouquet was a cluster of bride roses combined with a shower of lilies of the valley. The only ornament worn was a diamond and emerald pin.

The maid of honor wore a princess gown of pale blue radium silk, elaborately trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and carried a huge cluster of shell-pink sweet peas. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony and were present at the reception which followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Simons left Washington late in the evening for a wedding trip. Mrs. Simons wore a traveling suit of champagne voile, with minor appointments to match, and a hat trimmed with a long brown plume. Upon their return to the city they will live temporarily at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Kingsman. Mrs. William B. Morris, of Providence, R. I., mother of the bridegroom, was among the out-of-town guests.

Miss Susan Mary Virginia Hazen, of this city, and Charles J. Morris, of Sioux Falls, Iowa, were married at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Green, Wednesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, by Rev. F. M. Bristol. The affair was marked by great simplicity, and was witnessed only by the relatives and intimate friends of the bride.

Mrs. B. W. Green, the bride's cousin, was her matron of honor and only attendant. Mr. and Mrs. Morris left for a wedding journey, which will include a visit to many of the Eastern cities, as well as the Jamestown Exposition, after which they will live at Sioux Falls.

Mrs. Morris is the daughter of the late Gen. A. Depue Hazen, who, at the time of his death, was deputy naval officer of the custom-house of Baltimore, and was at one time Third Assistant Postmaster General.

After congratulations were extended to the old folks, the company assembled in the parlor, where the family posed for a photograph. Later refreshments were served and speeches made.

WORSHIP IN CAMP

LIVE IN PEACE AND QUIETNESS

Members of Washington District Make Annual Pilgrimage to Maryland Town Where Religious Services Are Held Morning, Afternoon, and Night—Dwell in Tents.

Washington Grove, with its towering oaks and verdant meadows, its pretty cottages and their wide porches, its white-clad gospel seekers, and its Maryland breezes, is in the throes of the annual camp meeting of the Washington District Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church.

Worshippers of all descriptions have journeyed thither to pray and to listen to words of religion in the little Maryland village without the discomforts that attend such devotion in the sweltering city. Old campaigners who have been constant worshippers for years are again on the ground and with the same fervor, whole families have reopened their cottages, and go in a body to the services. Gay, younger persons go slightly more reluctantly to every meeting and then enter into the sedate amusements with a lighter heart.

Cottages in Grove.

Built along the only avenue in the Grove are many cottages, far enough from the sun-baked road and secure enough under the great trees to defy the heat and the dusty aftermath of the passing horses.

While there is a plenitude of quiet in this primeval wood, there is likewise a certain effort made to amuse the young people, while the older ones make calls and go to church.

While almost every tenth man is a minister, every tenth woman a deaconess, every other man a trustee, and all men pillars of the church, the religious atmosphere is not oppressive, and the short, interesting services afford a pleasant diversion, as well as a profitable one.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the services are in charge of the Mothers of Israel, and there is a smart bit of hurrying done to get breakfast over and the children ready. Yesterday the service was conducted by Mrs. Osborne, wife of Dr. William Osborne, of the University of Maryland. The topic of the meeting was "Forgiveness," and a series of Biblical readings and reflections of them were in order.

The roomy auditorium, built more with an eye to comfort than to beauty, but well kept and pleasing in appearance, is the objective point of all the campers. Morning prayer opens the meeting. For an hour the people devote themselves attentively to the mothers and then go off to their various duties.

Hours for Children.

In the afternoon the children have their hours and they are surprisingly ready to drop their pleasures and went their way to the auditorium. Here two classes are formed, one under the direction of Miss Miner, and the other conducted by Miss Wood. A brief address by the directress is followed by recitations and singing by the children, and then there is more freedom until 8 at night.

Then comes the sermon of the day, a carefully prepared commentary on some Biblical text, and several hymns by a large mixed choir, under the direction of Percy S. Foster, with which the day closes.

Sunday is the big day, and for miles around the Marylanders come to attend the meetings. There are two services on Sunday, a sermon and a special meeting in the afternoon, and a sermon at night. Last night's sermon was delivered by Rev. George W. King, of the Dunbar Methodist Episcopal Church. The meeting will last ten days.

The committee in charge consists of W. H. H. Smith, chairman; D. Elmer Wilber, vice chairman; A. H. Hiller, secretary; Melville Lindsey, treasurer; E. De Witt Huntley, D. D. Percy S. Foster, Robert E. Cook, W. F. Gatebell, William B. Hardy, Janvier Lindsay, Thomas J. Owen, and James E. Ayton.

CHARLES H. VINCENT DIES.

Heart Trouble, Aggravated by the Heat, Causes Demise.

Charles H. Vincent, the attorney who fell dead in Dupont Circle yesterday of heart failure, was not as at first supposed a retired general of the army. A postal card found in Mr. Vincent's pocket, addressed to "Gen." Vincent, led the police to believe that he was a veteran soldier.

Mr. Vincent was seventy-three years old and lived at 2912 Q street northwest, with his brother, Henry W. Vincent, a clerk in the Pension Bureau, and several other members of his family.

He went to Dupont Circle shortly after 1 o'clock and seated himself on one of the benches. Park policeman Berzelheimer noticed him slip from the bench to the ground, but the aged man was dead when the officer reached him. Deputy Coroner Glazebrook was notified and gave the cause of death as heart trouble, aggravated by the heat.

He was born in Norfolk, Va., and is survived by his wife, one daughter, and two daughters—Mrs. Maud Swazey and Mrs. Patricia Porter. Funeral services will be conducted at the residence Saturday at 5 o'clock, by the Rev. F. B. Howden. Interment is to be at Oak Hill Cemetery.

Bacon Will Make Hay, Too.

Assistant Secretary of State Bacon left Washington yesterday afternoon for his country place on Long Island, where he will remain until Monday. Mr. Bacon has a crop of hay to gather, and realizes that the President has beaten him in getting his in.
